The Northern New Jersey .NET User Group proudly presents:“Best Kept Secrets of .NET!”, a presentation by Deborah Kurata

Psst. Don't tell anyone, but word is spreading that Deborah will let you in on the Best Kept Secrets in .NET. There are many new features in .NET, some of which have gotten great publicity (like Web services) while others have been left lurking in the shadows. This talk will shed some light on these lesser-known features to help you make the most of .NET.

Did you know that you can define separate build configurations in Visual Studio.NET? Have you tried expanding the capabilities of a dataset using Extended Properties? With all of the talk about the Agile Method and Extreme Programming, have you tried to build a test harness with .NET? How about deprecating your methods? This talk covers these topics and much more!"

About Deborah Kurata

Deborah Kurata is cofounder of InStep Technologies Inc., a professional consulting firm that focuses on turning your business vision into reality using Microsoft .NET technologies. Deborah is the author of several books, including 'Doing Objects in Visual Basic 6.0' (SAMS) and 'Doing Web Development: Client-Side Techniques' (APress), and writes for MSDN. She is a well-known speaker at conferences, such as VSLive, and at local user groups. She has over 15 years of experience in designing and developing successful applications and currently focuses on .NET architecture, object-oriented design and development, and best practices for .NET development."

About the Northern New Jersey .NET User Group (aka N3UG)

The mission of N³UG is to develop Northern New Jersey's software development community. Our goal is to bring together .NET developers, architects, managers, and individuals with an interest to hear industry leaders and guest speakers in a forum which promotes an exchange of knowledge and experiences within the .NET development platform.
